The Music, Production, Performance (M2P) program in Musicology is offered by the University of Evry Paris-Saclay. It provides training that combines musical practice (performance, production, and creation), pedagogy (transmission and mediation), and an introduction to musicological research. The courses focus on contemporary music creation (popular music, jazz, contemporary music).

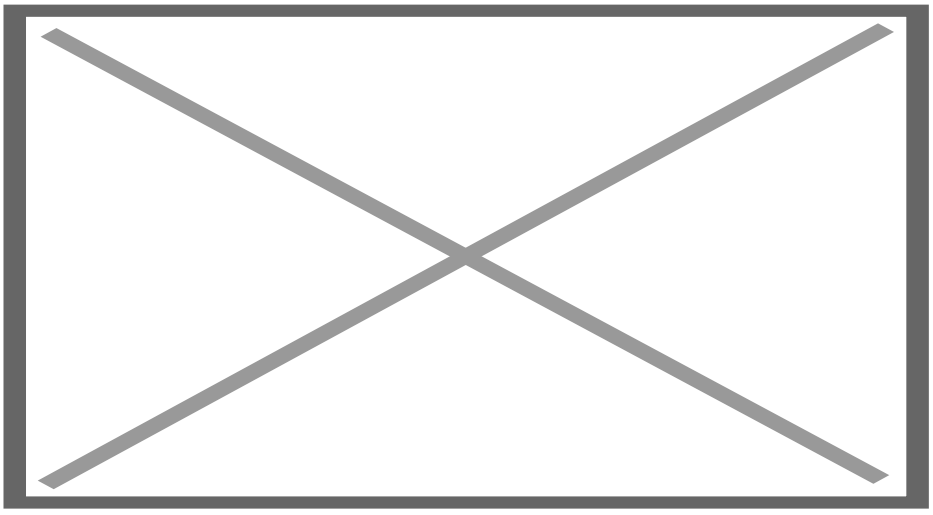

The Music, Production, Performance (M2P) program is based on strong partnerships with public institutions (BnF, CRD de Clamart, CRD d'Évry, Scène nationale de l'Essonne, SMAC Le Plan et L'Empreinte, Scène de recherche ENS Paris-Saclay) and private institution (Centre des Musiques Didier Lockwood), promoting regional and metropolitan integration. The program is supported by the RASM (Research in Performing Arts and Music) team at the CHCSC (Center for Cultural History of Contemporary Societies) laboratory, covering a wide range of musicological and heritage fields. It also offers professional training, preparing students for a variety of careers related to music and the performing arts.

Objectives

The Music, Production, Performance (M2P) program has several complementary objectives, aiming to develop students' artistic, scientific, and professional expertise in the field of music. First, it allows students to deepen their artistic and instrumental practice through close partnerships with conservatories (CRD d'Évry, Centre des Musiques Didier Lockwood). Students can thus evolve in demanding environments that nurture their musical progress, while benefiting from a stimulating academic setting.

The program also aims to develop a solid musicological culture and a well-founded critical capacity. It encourages intellectual curiosity and offers rigorous teaching in a variety of fields: music history, analysis, aesthetics, ethnomusicology, and systematic musicology. This theoretical foundation prepares students to conduct independent research at the master's level. All programs include the writing of a master thesis focused on a novel and scientifically relevant topic. This work allows students to learn about academic research while establishing a musical specialization.

Professionalization is at the heart of the educational project. It is based on the involvement of teachers from the professional world (musicians, creators, mediators, teacher-researchers) and on a network of partnerships with dissemination, training, and research organizations. There are many career opportunities: musical performance, cultural mediation, project production, academia, and music education. As such, the program is designed to allow each student to develop a coherent and personal project in line with their artistic, academic, or professional aspirations.
