LDD3 Law, Computer science, IT reinforcement

Licence Double-Diplôme (Undergraduate double degree)

Specialisation Droit, Informatique

Language(s) of instruction

English French

Mastery of IT fundamentals while being able to make the link with the legal environment

The Undergraduate Double Degree in Law and Computer Science is designed to meet newly-identified professional needs, in particular in the fields of healthcare, cyber security, database management and use, and the development of autonomous devices. The double degree offers students the opportunity to acquire dual competencies in law and IT by taking two years of joint courses, then enhancing their competencies in law or IT during the third year of the degree. Under the degree, students are required to take general courses in both fields, as well as more specific courses on the legal aspects of digitalisation and new technologies.
