

How?

The Dalida help desk collects your testimonies anonymously and in the strictest confidence:

- By email, sent to:
contact.dalida@universite-paris-saclay.fr
- Via an online form:
<https://www.universite-paris-saclay.fr/en/filing-report>

Witnesses and victims can also request an in-person, telephone or video appointment.

A small team of trained professionals provides an initial welcome and directs the person to the right support after assessing their situation.

The service also works with a network of partners (specialist associations, and legal, medical or psychological organisations) to ensure that the person reporting the issue receives support tailored to them, their needs, and their choices. No steps are imposed on you.

october 2025

To ensure a respectful and inclusive environment for everyone in its community, Université Paris-Saclay has set up a reporting system called Dalida. It ensures that anyone reporting an issue is heard, supported, guided, and accompanied.

Who?

The Dalida help desk is open to everyone in the university community:

- Students
- PhD candidates
- All staff

What?

You can report:

- Violence: physical, verbal, sexual or sexist
- Harassment: psychological or sexual
- Discrimination: based on background, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, gender, health, or disability
- Psychosocial risks: situations of work-related distress

The reporting procedure

Confidentiality and respect for the victim's wishes are maintained at every stage of the reporting process
