Differents modes of access

Whatever the mode of access chosen, please note that some details of your thesis will be made publicly available on the Internet (titles, keywords and abstracts)

Option 1 : You would like your thesis to be available on the Internet :

the full text of the thesis will be available online

Option 2 : You would like your thesis to be available on the Internet after an embargo period (usually between 1 month and 2 years) :

For example : you might still be in the process of publishing certain parts or results from your thesis

- Your thesis will be available in the library for reading for the duration of the embargo
- After the embargo period, your thesis will be disseminated on the Internet

In Adum, tick the box allowing your thesis to be disseminated on the Internet !

Option 3 : For legal reasons, you would like parts but not the whole of your thesis to be available on the Internet :

For example : this may be because your thesis includes copyright material (diagrams, drawings, tables and articles) which you don't have permission to reproduce.

In this case, you need to submit 2 versions of your thesis : a complete version AND a version which excludes such content as should not be disseminated

- The complete version of your thesis will be available for consultation in the library
- The shorter version will be made publicly available on the Internet

Option 4 : You do not wish your thesis to be disseminated on the Internet

In this case, your thesis will only be available for consultation in the University library

Special Case : confidentiality

• You can apply for dissemination to be restricted on the grounds of confidentiality by making a request to the Director of your institution (or his/her representative) 3 months before your defense

• Your thesis will not be available either in the University library or in the Internet

• At the end of the confidentiality period, your thesis will be accessible on the Internet or in the University library depending on the level of access you have selected
